

Class Stories

We recognise how important stories are and we read with our children at the end of every day.

The stories we hear as children shape our view of the world.

Reading stories to children can show them far-flung places, extraordinary people and eye-opening situations to expand and enrich their world. It can also be a great way of helping them deal with real life situations that they need help to deal with.

Reading with our children increases their vocabulary and their understanding of how stories work. We encourage our children to have a say in the stories that are read and, where possible use these texts to give them more information on the topics that we are studying in class.

Children often enjoy these stories so much that they reread them independently and read other texts by the same authors.

Here is a selection of texts that we have read together.
